EUROPEAN COMMISSION NEWS

European Union – Most immigrants "want to settle" in country of residence

Three out of four non-EU immigrants are or wish to become citizens in their country of residence, according to a new survey.

These are two of the main findings of a study by the Brussels-based King Baudouin Foundation and Migration Policy Group.

The "Immigrant Citizens Survey" of non-EU-born legal immigrants surveyed over 7000 people in 15 cities in seven countries (Belgium, France, Germany, Hungary, Italy, Portugal and Spain). The survey also found that immigrants highly value language and integration courses, which have helped many not only to learn the language, but also get better jobs and involved in the community.

The survey's key findings are available at www.immigrantsurvey.org.

Study on media coverage of ethnicity & religion in Europe

The Study is based on interviews with 117 journalists and editors and critical analysis of 199 news reports from across nine EU countries (Denmark, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Lithuania, Slovakia & the United Kingdom). ## FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES

Prize for Research on Integration of Young People Excluded by Early School Leaving and Unemployment

The Foundation P&V combats the exclusion of young people. Early school leaving and youth unemployment are on top of the societal and political agendas, both in Belgium and Europe. More and more a 'lost generation' of young people is feared, which has lost every hope on a good job and a better future.

Therefore the Foundation P&V is launching a far-reaching operation that aims, in a first stage, to gather the most recent and relevant scientific knowledge on the subject via a call for scientific articles.

The articles must be submitted before 30 June 2012 to saskia.de.groof@pv.be

For more information, as well as the regulations of the competition and the instructions for submitting an article, please visit the website <http://www.fondationpv.be/>
